

Sacred Dance Festival 2006 - Opening Ceremony

The Power of Dance (1)

The annual Festival of Sacred Dance, Music and Song is one of the bigger events in the Findhorn Community. The first night of the festival is always attracting lots of people who come together to enjoy circledancing and live music. I was interested to see if there are any visible effects on my random number generator. The RNG is normally attached to an old laptop sitting on a shelf in my office that is in the basement of the Universal Hall , the main venue of the dance festival. There where over 130 people at the opening event that happened between 8pm and 10:30pm at the 8th. of July 2006. I personally enjoyed the atmosphere of joy, dance and an almost sacred bliss. I would say that the consciousness field was almost visible. The plot below is showing the statistical analysis of the RNG data of the afternoon and evening of that day. There is a steep upward slope almost exactly between 8pm and 10:30pm.

I think that dancing and specially circledancing is a wonderful way to create a strong consciousness field. A lot of people are following the same dance path, the same steps, share the same joy and carry the same beat in their hearts. This creates a powerful coherence of consciousness.
